Why H. S. Stout Succeeds.

Here are a few reasons why H. S. Stout has succeeded in building up the largest tailoring business in Paris:

FIRST—He recognized the fact that five years ago that the only day of big profits and small sales was past.

SECOND—He cuts the price of tailor-made garments at least 40 PER CENT.

THIRD—He kept up the quality of his materials, his styles and his workmanship.

FOURTH—He always does as he advertised.

AS A RESULT.

As a result of this system he has built up a large trade that appreciates the fact that they save twenty dollars on a single Suit or Overcoat. "Many customers at a small profit rather than a few customers at a big profit," says H. S. Stout.

If you want credit, your high-price tailor gladly extends it, for he makes you pay dearly for it in the end.

Why not turn over a new leaf—wear the best, save money, by giving H. S. Stout a trial?

He makes the Finest Imported Suits for $30.00 AND $35.00.

WINE OF CARDUI

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES, irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation. For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into the world stronger for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chancery Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. J. W. Salth, Camden, S.C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

BAYARD IS DEAD

Famous Statesman Expires at His Daughter's Home, Dedham, Mass.

Mr. Bayard Suffered From Arterio-Colorosis and a General Breaking Down Incident to Old Age—The Public Services of the Man.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 29.—Thomas F. Bayard died at half past 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Karlstein, the summer residence of his daughter, Mrs. Samuel D. Warren, after an illness of six weeks. His death was without pain. His wife, his two daughters—Mrs. Warren and Miss Florence Bayard—and his son, Thomas F. Jr., saw him draw his last breath, and his third daughter, the Countess Lauenhaupt, was on her way to Dedham.

The remains will be conveyed to Delaware, and the funeral services will be held Saturday in the old Swedish church at Wilmington.

Karlstein lies off Needham road. Here about the middle of August came Mr. Bayard, to be the guest of his member of the council of safety; colonel of the 2d continental regiment raised in Philadelphia in 1775; speaker of the assembly in 1777; member of the continental congress in 1785, besides having been honored with many other offices of great trust.

Four members of the Bayard family, direct descendants of the foregoing, have had senatorial honors bestowed upon them by the little state of Delaware—Thomas Francis Bayard; his father, James Ashton Bayard; his grandfather of the same name, the negotiator of the treaty of Ghent, and his uncle, Richard Henry Bayard.

Thomas Francis Bayard was born in Wilmington, Del., October 29, 1828, and was a younger son.

Having a liking for his father's profession, that of law, he became a student, and was admitted to the bar in 1851. He immediately began the practice of his profession with his father, and was successful from the beginning, his local fame spreading rapidly. In 1853 he was appointed United States district attorney for Delaware. In 1855 Mr. Bayard removed to Philadelphia, where he formed a legal co-partnership with William Shippen. This connection lasted five years. Mr. Bayard on the death of his partner returned to Wilmington, where he was needed by his father, who was then engrossed with public duties.

When the war of the rebellion began a militia company was organized and Thomas F. Bayard was elected its first lieutenant.

Mr. Bayard's popularity in his native state kept growing rapidly, and in 1868 he was elected to succeed his father in the United States senate and was subsequently twice re-elected.

In the democratic convention of 1884, at daughter and son-in-law. He was sick, but it was given out that his illness was due merely to declining years. He steadily grew weaker, however, and had spells of semi-consciousness and of delirium. A consultation of physicians was held August 26, and they agreed that Mr. Bayard was suffering from arterio-colorosis and a general breaking down incident to age. He suffered no pain to any noticeable degree, and the chief tendency was to sleep.

During the first few weeks of his illness Mr. Bayard was able to sit up, but as the days passed he became gradually weaker and three weeks ago he laid himself on his bed and never again rose from it. At times he would rally to some extent, but the relapse carried him always nearer the end. His wonderful constitution resisted the ravages of disease for a surprising period. Much of the time he was in a semi-conscious condition, seldom recognizing any of the family and at intervals having sinking spells, accompanied by choking. These left him always weaker. Tuesday it became evident that his death was only a matter of a few hours. Still he lingered, having a slight rally during the night, and during the forenoon his condition showed little change. At 4 o'clock he began to sink rapidly and half an hour later he gently passed away. Thursday the body will be sent to Delaware, being due to arrive at Wilmington late Friday afternoon.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 29.—The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The body will be brought here on Friday afternoon and will remain in Old Swedes church over night, guarded by a friend of the family. At noon on Saturday the body will be exposed to public view in the church. At 2 o'clock the services will begin. In accordance with the wishes of Mr. Bayard, the regular Episcopal service will be used, conducted by Rev. Dr. Douglass, of Connecticut, who was a close friend of the deceased. He will be assisted by Rector M. B. Dunlap, of Old Swedes. The pallbearers have not yet been selected. The interment will be in Old Swedes cemetery. There are many expressions of sympathy for Mr. Bayard's family and flags are at half mast on all public buildings.

Thomas Francis Bayard was a distinguished member of an eminent family. Since long before the revolutionary war times the Bayards have been conspicuous in the country's history as patriots and statesmen, and many acquired national fame as jurists. Nicholas, the first ancestor to come to America, a son of an Amsterdam merchant, though of French Huguenot extraction and a nephew of Gov. Stuyvesant, was secretary of the province of New York in 1672, mayor of New York in 1685, and holder of several other important provincial offices. Col. John Bayard, a grandson, who was a member of the provincial council of 1774, a leader of the movement for independence in Philadelphia; a which Mr. Cleveland was nominated, Mr. Bayard received the next largest vote to the successful candidate on the two ballots which were taken.

As soon as the result of the national election of 1884 became positively known, Mr. Bayard was the first democratic statesman invited to consult with President-elect Cleveland, and it was generally understood that he was the first man offered a place in the new cabinet—that of secretary of state, which he finally accepted.

In March, 1893, Mr. Bayard was appointed ambassador to the court of St. James, and served during Mr. Cleveland's second term.

In October, 1896, Senator Bayard was married to Louisa, daughter of Josiah Lee, a Baltimore banker. Twelve children were the result of the union. Mr. Bayard's first wife died during the first year of his term as secretary of state. Four years later he was married to Miss Mary C. Clymer, of Washington, who survives him. Seven of the children are living, as follows: Mrs. Samuel D. Warren, of Boston; Miss Annie Bayard, Miss Florence Bayard, the Countess Lauenhaupt, formerly Miss Nellie Bayard; James A. Bayard, Thomas F. Bayard, Jr., and Philip Francis Bayard.

MADE A TERRIBLE MISTAKE.

A Kentucky Soldier Killed by Spanish Troops in Porto Rico by Accident—The Incident Regretted.

SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, Sept. 29.—Word has reached here that a Porto Rican residing at Aguadilla, near Mayaguez asked protection of both the American and Spanish troops against depredations by outlaws, which it was predicted would occur. In response to his request the American authorities sent to his residence two soldiers of a Kentucky regiment, who arrived there Sunday evening after dark. The resident had not notified the Spaniards that he had requested American protection and some Spanish soldiers who had been sent to guard his house arriving after the Americans mistook the latter for outlaws. In the confusion resulting the Spaniards fired, unfortunately killing one of the Americans. The name of the dead soldier has not yet been ascertained. The incident is greatly regretted by the Spaniards.

A Gospel Ship.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 29.—There is a plan being perfected for the construction of a big gospel ship, which will carry the church of Christ's creed to Porto Rico and Cuba. Rev. J. E. Cobenour D.D., of St. Louis, is here and is the head of an organization which has $7,000 already subscribed for the building of the ship and equipping it at Jeffersonville, where he goes from here. Landings will be made on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, thence to the new territory belonging to Uncle Sam for permanency. The ship will be furnished like a modern church with a seating capacity for 800 persons.

David Hanna, Company E, 2d West Virginia volunteers, of Elkham, W. Va., died Tuesday in the Medico-Chirurgical hospital, Philadelphia, of typhoid fever.

FAVORS SPAIN.

Parisians Have a Leaning Toward Spanish Peace Commissioners.

The Suite of Rooms Which the Former Empress at One Time Used Will Probably Be Acquired by the American Commission.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—While the reception accorded the United States peace commission here is all that could be desired, and while the French foreign office has taken great pains to treat the American and Spanish commissioners in precisely the same manner, it must be admitted that the general atmosphere of Paris, especially the diplomatic atmosphere, does not incline toward America.

It is the general impression here that the American commissioners have instructions to provide for the retention of Manila and the island of Luzon, "and for a commission to pretend to negotiate a farce," said a prominent diplomat. He continued:

"America will put herself, diplomatically, in the wrong when she exceeds the provisions of the protocol, which both nations signed. I know the Spaniards have come prepared to make concessions; but, if the American instructions are of an uncompromising nature, which is generally believed here to be the case, you can rest assured that the work of the commission will be futile. The Spaniards will retire and America will at least have to threaten a resumption of hostilities before she will gain her point." The French newspapers, beyond announcing the arrival of the commissioners, make no comment upon the matter.

The American peace commission, for the first time since its appointment, met as a body Tuesday for two hours in the drawing room of the Continental hotel.

Mr. Ferdinand W. Peck, the United States commissioner to the Paris exposition of 1900, is about to vacate his quarters in the same hotel. They were formerly occupied by the ex-Empress Eugenie and have been used by Mr. Peck as offices until his permanent offices on the exposition grounds were in readiness.

The suite of rooms which the former empress at one time used will probably be acquired by the American peace commissioners. They will be used for executive sessions and official headquarters.

As the joint commission is not a deliberative body, it will, possibly, not organize with a presiding member from either commission.

This is deemed in some quarters to be the wiser plan, as tending to promote closer working relations between the two commissions and facilitating an ultimate adjustment. This, however, is not positive.

Judge Day and Mr. Whitelaw Reid are quartered at a hotel overlooking the Tuilleries gardens and the other commissioners are equally comfortable.

The Americans enjoyed sunny weather during their first day in Paris and they are all in good health and spirits.

SPECIAL QUESTIONS ASKED.

The Investigating Commissioners Have Addressed Six Questions for Secretary of War Alger's Reply.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The war investigating commission resumed its labors at 10 o'clock Tuesday in the Lemon building, and at the close of the morning session gave out a number of documents bearing upon the work to be undertaken. These comprise the letter of Secretary Alger to the president requesting that the investigation be made, a brief address to the public in the shape of a resolution, a letter from Chairman Dodge to the secretary of war, inclosing a list of inquiries to the secretary and to the heads of the various divisions of the war department calling for specific information bearing upon the conduct of the war.

To Secretary Alger the commission had addressed six queries for his reply.

1. Plan of campaign proposed immediately after the declaration of war; was it intended to move at once on Havana, or that the campaign should be postponed until the autumn?
2. When was the Santiago campaign determined upon?
3. Why was Tampa selected as the base of operations?
4. Why were summer camps organized at Ferrandina, Jacksonville and Tampa?
5. When was the Porto Rico campaign determined upon?
6. Why were the troops held on transports after embarkation at Tampa and not permitted to sail for several days.

Turkey Threatened by the Powers.

VIENNA, Sept. 28.—It is semi-officially announced that if the Turkish government replies unfavorably to the demands of the powers, respecting the island of Crete, which must be complied with by October 11, the powers will blockade certain places in Crete by land and sea.

Judge J. M. Stephens Dead.

BENTON, Ky., Sept. 28.—Ex-County Judge J. M. Stephens is dead, aged 83 years. His wife, one son and two daughters survive.

MANY OF THEM WOUNDED.

Battle on the Streets in Panama, Ill., Between the Whites and Colored Miners—Several Hundred Shots Fired.

PANAMA, Ill., Sept. 29.—Striking union coal miners and imported colored men engaged in a pitched battle in the main street of this city Wednesday night. Several hundred shots were exchanged.

No one was wounded in the ranks of the union men. The colored men were driven from the city to the stockades carrying with them, it is believed, a number of wounded comrades. One of the colored men is reported to have died soon after reaching the stockade. Desultory firing continued at midnight in the vicinity of the stockades. The trouble, which has been narrowly averted between the striking coal miners of this city and colored men imported from the south to work the mines, was precipitated at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

SOLDIER KILLED BY A TRAIN.

A Member of Battery D, United States Artillery, Meets Death on the Rail at McKeesport, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 29.—John Kirsch, a member of Battery D, United States artillery, a former resident of Pittsburgh, but lately residing at 345 Central avenue, Anderson, Ind., was ground to pieces Wednesday night by a train at McKeesport. Kirsch had been arrested by a railroad officer for trying to steal a ride. The officer had handcuffed the soldier and they stood on the platform to let a swiftly passing train pass. Kirsch made a dash for the handrail of one of the cars and succeeded in catching it, but struck a telegraph pole and was thrown under the train. Kirsch had lately been released from a Baltimore hospital and was on his way home, but had stopped here for a few days to visit friends.

SHIP MANY DAYS OVERDUE.

The Transport Senator Left Manila Over a Month Ago and It is Feared She Was Caught in a Typhoon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—The non-arrival of the transport Senator is beginning to cause a little uneasiness. She is now out 35 days from Manila. The steamer Zealandia, which left Manila two days after the Senator, was caught in a typhoon and had to put into Nagasaki on August 30 last for repairs. The transport Colon came across from Manila in 28 days, the City of Pekin in 23, the City of Sydney in 24 and the China in 23 days. All these vessels stopped at Nagasaki for coal. Besides the transports Senator and Zealandia, the Indiana is now out 27 days and the Ohio 25 days. All of them will be sent back to Manila as soon as they reach here and have been provisioned.

Bottle Blowers Made Happy.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 29.—Word from Pittsburgh Tuesday night of an adjustment of the flint glass bottle blowers' wage scale there caused happiness among the 600 members of the workers' association in Muncie. They recently voted for the settlement as made on last year's scale, the same as offered by the manufacturers at the Indianapolis meeting. Muncie has the largest flint bottle factory in the world—the Muncie Glass Co.

The Sensation is Exploded.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 29.—The people of Red Rock, in Noble county, have cleaned out the old well into which Joseph McCall, according to a confession which he was alleged to have made recently before dying, was supposed to have thrown the body of his brother after murdering him 40 years ago. Nothing whatever was found to substantiate the supposed confession, and the sensation is exploded.

Three Killed in a Powder Explosion.

NEW WHATCOM, Wash., Sept. 29.—Half a ton of powder exploded at Lind's road building camp, 17 miles north of here, and killed three people. Gus Swanson, Mike Gees and a 6-year-old son of John McCulloch. McCulloch was fatally injured and Dan Sandstorm was seriously hurt. The report was heard 20 miles away. Everything in the neighborhood was destroyed.

Big Tannery Fire.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 29.—The Hahn & Stumps' tannery, covering the block bounded by Dey, Warren and Jersey streets, in Harrison, was burned Wednesday morning. Loss, $60,000.

The Growth of Socialism.

It is argued by deep thinkers that the growth of socialism is due to the large standing armies of the world, in which men are often made to enlist against their will, and thus become discontented with existing conditions. The growth of a stronger race of people is due to the large sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is the best medicine for costiveness, dyspepsia, fever, ague and all nervous troubles. Try one bottle.

System of Civil Government Established in Santiago by Gen. Wood.

The Spanish Officials Are Giving Place to Cubans—Lieut. Blount Has Been Appointed to Codify the Cuban Laws—Robberies.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Sept. 28.—The system of civil government established by Gen. Wood is practically complete and in good working order. Maj. McCleary, former attorney general for Texas and a Spanish scholar, has been appointed mayor, and the Spanish officials are giving place to Cubans. Gen. Wood says he does not know the capabilities of the men taking office. They are chosen by a committee of 50 prominent Cubans, whom he believes to be honest and conscientious.

This committee recommends men whom its members think would be efficient in the various offices to be filled. The choice of men by the committee must be unanimous and must be made over the signatures of the entire 50 members. Gen. Wood finds that the plan works admirably. Lieut. Blount has been appointed to codify the Cuban laws.

Senor Rigney, one of the largest sugar planters in Cuba, who has arrived here from Manzanillo, reports the conditions there worse than ever. The insurgents, he asserts, refuse to grant permission for the carrying on of work on the plantations, and the Spanish officials decline to furnish protection to those desiring work. Senor Rigney declares that since the cessation of hostilities the insurgents have confiscated his provisions and destroyed a number of valuable pictures, made his carpets into saddle cloths, tore and trampled curtains and broke glasses worth $500 each. They are encamped in numbers at the sea town of Campechuela, where they compel small vessels which fall into their hands to hoist the Cuban flag.

Gen. Wood has leased the residence formerly occupied by the late British Consul Frederick W. Ramsden and his family, one mile from the city.

What archives the Spaniards left have been removed to Gen. Wood's offices in the palace. The transport Minnewaska will leave shortly with ordnance for Porto Rico.

The Cubans earnestly request Gen. Wood to send to Manzanillo food and clothing. They declare there is much suffering there, but private advices received by Gen. Wood deny absolutely the stories of destitution and declare that work is obtainable, but that the Cubans will not work and he has, therefore, refused to send the supplies asked for.

William Stakeman, before the war American consul at Manzanillo, arrived here Tuesday and paid a visit to Gen. Wood. He recounted many lawless acts on the part of the insurgents, who, he declares, demand tribute from every one, terrorize peaceful people and threaten the confiscation of the property of merchants and planters.

Many persons say that the recognition of the Cubans has not been granted because the bandits make work and progress impossible. There is a general feeling of alarm in Manzanillo over the departure of the Spanish troops and the American soldiers are anxiously awaited.

FILIBUSTERING FILIPINOS.

An American Vessel Manned by the Insurgents, Seized by Adm. Dewey—His Act Approved by Administration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—A cable dispatch received at the navy department Tuesday from Adm. Dewey, contained information of the seizure of an American vessel, manned by Filipinos, and said to be in the service of Aguinaldo.

President McKinley and Secretary Long had a conference over the matter and decided to notify Adm. Dewey of the approval of his course.

The dispatch follows:

"GOVERNMENT MANILA, Sept. 27.—Secretary Navy, Washington: Having received information American steamer Abby left Macao September 21st with cargo of arms for Batangas, sent McCulloch. Arrived Batangas 23d. Found her in harbor, having arrived three days earlier and landed cargo. Only Filipinos on board.

"They refused to give any information and had no papers whatever. Seized and brought her here, where now hold her. This steamer formerly Pasig. Registered American vessel. United States consulate Canton has information she made one voyage of same kind before.

DEWEY.

"WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—To Dewey, Manila: Your action in seizing American owned vessel Abby approved. She is amenable to neutral jurisdiction for any violation of neutrality.

"LONG."

Fireman Burned to Death.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 28.—The Vendome hotel, the most fashionable hotel in this city, was damaged by fire Monday night to the extent of $40,000. The remains of a fireman, Miles McDermott, were removed from the ruins Tuesday.

Yacht Sunk—Two Men Drowned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—A yacht was seen to capsize and sink in the upper bay during a heavy gale Tuesday morning, with two men on board. Nothing was left to identify them.

THEY MAY VISIT THE CAMPS.

The Members of the War Investigation Commission to Make a Tour for the Purpose of Inspection.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Only four members of the war investigating commission were present at the meeting Wednesday morning. They were Col. Denby, who has been elected vice chairman; Gov. Woodbury, Gen. Wilson and Capt. Howell. The absent members are not expected to return to Washington before Monday, and between now and then the commission, according to the outlook at this writing, will have little to work upon, as few communications have been received.

Just two complaints have been received by the commission. One came from a member of the 7th regular infantry. He made some sweeping charges, claiming that a soldier of that regiment had been grossly neglected at Camp Wikoff and had then been sent to his home in Chicago in a terrible physical condition. A copy of this letter was sent to President McKinley. The other letter came from a member of a Maine regiment. The writer says that he has been requested to speak for his regiment.

He has been informed that he must specify the charges if he expects the commission to take any notice of them.

Gen. Wilson, a member of the commission, handed in his report Wednesday morning. He gives in detail the condition of the fortifications, the sinking of the mines in the harbor and pretty much everything that had anything to do with the war so far as the army is concerned.

In speaking unofficially, Secretary Weightman said that he thought the commission would visit a number of the camps.

MUST HOLD THE PHILIPPINES.

Maj. Charles McClure Advises the United States to Retain Possession of These Fertile Islands.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Paymaster General Stanton has received a private letter from Maj. Chas. McClure, chief paymaster at Manila. He says of the Philippines that the United States should by all means retain possession of those fertile islands. The people of that country, he states, have been misgoverned for 300 years, with no opportunity to develop or improve themselves. The United States, he says, in the interest of humanity should assume government over the islands.

Fatally Injured by an Explosion.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—An explosion of powder Wednesday in the rear of the four-story building at 410 North Fourth street, occupied by C. & W. McClain, fishing tackle and sporting goods, set the store on fire and caused its destruction and resulted in the injury to a number of people, several of whom will die.

Crane for Governor of New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 29.—Alvin W. Crane, of Newark, was nominated for governor on the first ballot. Senator W. D. Daly, of Hudson, was his nearest competitor. There was a fight in the convention on a motion to insert in the platform a specific indorsement of the Chicago platform of 1896. The motion was defeated by a decided vote.

Corbett and McCoy Meet.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—James J. Corbett and Kid McCoy met in the corridor of the Gilsey house Wednesday afternoon, and entered into a dispute as to the prospects for a fight. Each called the other some pretty hard names, and McCoy kicked Corbett in the groin. The men were separated by bystanders.

Secretary Alger in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Secretary Alger has returned to Washington. He came to the war department immediately after breakfast Wednesday and was soon besieged by a number of persons who had been waiting for his return. The secretary looked much improved by his trip, although it was filled with hard work after he left Detroit.

Battle Ships Delayed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The battle ship Oregon dropped down to Tompkinsville from the navy yard Wednesday morning, where she will await the battle ship Iowa, which was not quite ready Wednesday morning for the long trip to Manila. It is likely that the start will be made Thursday morning.

Five Killed in a Wreck.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 29.—A special excursion train on the way to the Halifax exhibition from Pictou Wednesday morning crashed into a working train near Steller. Two engineers, two firemen and a passenger were killed.

The Olivette Raised.

FERNANDINA, Fla., Sept. 29.—The Plant steamship Olivette was successfully raised Wednesday and work will be commenced at once to put her in shape to be placed in the dry docks. The Olivette sank at the quarantine station some time ago while taking on coal.

Death of Queen Louise.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 29.—Queen Louise, of Denmark, died at 5:30 Thursday morning. The entire royal family was at her bedside.

COL. ROOSEVELT.

Commander of the Rough Riders Nominated for Governor.

Timothy L. Woodruff Was Renominated for Lieutenant Governor—John T. McDonough Received the Nomination for Secretary.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The state republican convention was called to order at 12:30.

Interest in the convention proceedings was shown as much by the crush at the press tables as by other manifestations. Usually there are many vacant seats in the Saratoga convention hall. Tuesday all the seats were taken.

At 12 o'clock sharp a picture of Col. Roosevelt in his Karkee uniform was brought down the aisle, and the bands struck up "Hail, the Conquering Hero Comes."

Congressman Seneca E. Payne, temporary chairman, was introduced at 12:40. In his opening paragraphs he referred to William McKinley as a warrior and statesman, and the roar of applause was deafening.

At 1:25 the convention took a recess till 2:30.

The convention reconvened at 4:03 p. m.

At 4:39 p. m. J. Rider Cady, of Hudson, took the platform to nominate Gov. Black.

Mr. Chauncey M. Depew took the platform at 4:55 to place in nomination Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

At 7:15 p. m. Secretary of State Palmer moved a roll call and the motion was adopted.

LIEUT. COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Before it got through the New York delegation it was evident that Mr. Roosevelt had a practical walk-over and at 7:36 enough votes had been cast to nominate him.

At 7:41 the roll call was completed and the vote was announced as follows: Roosevelt, 753; Black, 218.

Then the auditors and the delegates rose in a great mass and cheered. Judge Cady got the floor and moved the unanimous nomination. While the question was pending, Senator Krum, who had supported Gov. Black, said: "On behalf of Gov. Black and his friends, I say that they will stand by Theodore Roosevelt as he stood by the country."

The nomination was made unanimous, and at 7:46 the convention stood in recess until 9 o'clock.

The convention reassembled at 9:00 o'clock and speedily made the following nominations:

For Lieutenant Governor—Timothy L. Woodruff, renominated.

Secretary of State—John T. McDonough.

Controller—William J. Morgan.

State Treasurer—John R. Jaekel.

Attorney General—John C. Davies.

State Engineer—Edward A. Bond.

All but Davies were nominated by acclamation.

The platform congratulates the country on the conclusion of the war with Spain, endorses the patriotic wisdom of the president in the conduct of the war, and the army and navy upon the splendid victories of the war. Commends the annexation of the Hawaiian islands and renews its allegiance to the doctrines of the St. Louis platform, and condemns and resists the democratic policies declared at Chicago. American products should be carried in American ships. The administration of Gov. Black is commended.

Burglars Caught.

BLISSFIELD, Mich., Sept. 28.—The sheriff of Lenawee county Tuesday surrounded in a woods the three burglars who robbed the Blissfield post office Saturday night and shot Samuel Rothfuss. They were taken after considerable shooting.

Equal Lay and Ministerial Representation.

SYDNEY, O., Sept. 28.—By an unanimous vote the Central Ohio Methodist conference Tuesday voted for equal lay and ministerial representation in the general conference.

DEADLY CYCLONE IN CANADA.

Six Persons Killed And at Least That Many Received Fatal Injuries in the Niagara Peninsula, Ontario.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28.—A special to the News from Niagara Falls, Ont., says:

The most appalling storm in the history of Niagara peninsula, passed over the strip of land between Lake Erie and Ontario, passing almost parallel with the Welland canal, cutting a swath 300 yards wide through the peninsula and cutting off a portion of it, went almost at right angles with the main path of the cyclone and took in Tonawanda. It struck St. Catharines, Meriton and Grantham, Ont., hardest.

At an early hour Tuesday morning, the number of lives lost is estimated at six. However, at least six more are fatally injured. The death list may reach 15.

As far as known the dead are:

Ina Moffatt, 11 years, killed at the collapse of the Ward school, at Meriton.

Clara O'Neil, 27 years old, killed at the fall of the Lincoln paper mill, Meriton.

Mrs. John Bickley, killed by fall of debris of Orange hall.

Aiken, young girl, killed at Grantham by fall of a house.

Aiken, her sister, killed at the same place.

Unknown woman rumored to be killed at Stamford while picking grapes.

The fatally injured are: Kennis Nester, crushed at Lincoln mill.

"GRIFFO" ON A RIP ROARER.

He is Strapped in a Straight Jacket in Chicago Pending an Examination Into His Mental Condition.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Albert Griffiths, better known as "Young Griffo" the pugilist, is strapped in a straight jacket at the Harrison street police station, where he is being held pending an examination into his mental condition.

Griffiths run amuck Tuesday evening on State street and from Congress street to Hubbard court he left a trail marked by bruised faces. Three policemen who arrested the pugilist were sent sprawling to the ground by a series of blows, and reinforcements were necessary before the prisoner was finally taken to a patrol box. Before Griffiths was tied in the patrol wagon he had taken off every article of clothing which he wore. Griffiths was drinking in a saloon, when he suddenly leaped into the air, turned loose a series of yells and rushed into the street, where he hit everybody he could reach.

MIDWIFE NANCY GUILFORD.

A Woman, Supposed to Be the Badly-Wanted Stamford, Ct., Midwife, Arrested in London, Eng.

STAMFORD, Ct., Sept. 28.—States Attorney Fessenden immediately on learning of the supposed arrest of Mrs. Guilford in London, communicated with Gov. Cooke, and upon his request the governor asked the state department at Washington to have the United States embassy at London arrange for the provisional arrest of the woman until the requisition papers could reach there. Mr. Fessenden said he has since learned that the state department had cabled London as requested.

The states attorney said that from information placed in his hands by the detectives he has on the case, he believes that the woman under surveillance in London is Dr. "Nancy" Guilford.

WE OUGHT TO HOLD LUZON.

Adm. Dewey Believes With the President That the United States Should Occupy the Island.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Brig. Gen. Greene, who arrived in Washington Tuesday from Manila, personally delivered to Acting Secretary Allan a communication from Rr. Adm. Dewey, understood to contain his views with respect to the disposition of the Philippine islands.

This communication was subsequently presented to the president, and a copy will undoubtedly be forwarded to the peace commission for consideration.

Rr. Adm. Dewey believes with the president that the United States should occupy the island of Luzon and shall have the reversionary rights with respect to the remainder of the islands.

Opposed to Removal of Columbus' Remains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—This telegram was sent to President McKinley Tuesday by the Cuban-American league: "The Cuban-American league believes that it voices the earnest wish of the people of both the United States and Cuba when it urges you not to permit Cuba's most interesting and sacred relic—the remains of Christopher Columbus—to be removed from America."

Peculiar Damage Settled.

NORWALK, O., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Caroline Linder has settled with the Johnson's Island Pleasure Resort Co. Mrs. Linder is the widow of Fred C. Linder, of Chicago Junction, who was shot by a balloonist on August 12, 1897. Mrs. Linder brought suit against the resort for $10,000. She now receives $550 from the company in complete settlement. This settlement has been effected with the approval of the probate court of Huron county.

Typhoid Fever Near Urbana.

URBANA, O., Sept. 28.—There is considerable typhoid fever in this county. Two weeks ago John and George Long, who were cutting corn, were found in a dazed condition and on being taken home went to bed. Monday John, aged 35, died. George is dangerously ill. Their mother, Mrs. John Long, is dangerously ill of the same disease, and Mrs. Conebaugh, a neighbor, died of typhoid.

Ordered Out of Town by Whitecappers.

BRAZIL, Ind., Sept. 28.—A band of 60 whitecappers went to the home of Fred Howard, living at Newburg, and, pulling him out of bed, they marched him to a tree in the woods and placed a noose about his neck. He begged for mercy and was finally told that if he left town his life would be spared. He agreed to do so and was released. Howard was charged with insulting women.

Instructions given by the navy department to Capt. A. S. Barker, commanding the battleship Oregon and senior officer of the squadron, which is under orders to proceed to Manila, require him to sail during the present week for Honolulu.

There are several thousand dollars in the Wells Fargo and the German savings banks, San Francisco, deposited to the credit of Dr. G. B. C. De Freye, who died in Vienna on July 4 last, and all efforts to find an heir or claimant for the fortune have been unavailable.

The Elk Minstrels.

THE much heralded Elk Minstrels scored a great success at the opera house last night, delighting one of the largest and swiftest audiences ever assembled at the Paris Grand. The performance was a clever and entertaining bit of minstrelsy, in which every performer shared the credit and applause. The program was as follows:

An Evening With The Elks.

Mr Geo. D. Mitchell.....Chairman
Invited Guests From The Royal Court of Monus:

Chas. Norman.....Frank Hutchinson
Prof. A. M. Gutzeit.....Musical Director
A. C. Gutzeit.....Leader of Orchestra

PART FIRST.

Grand Ensemble Overture.....Elk Minstrels
Ballad—"I Love Her Just the Same.".....C. B. Mitchell
Comic—"Dar's A Watermelon Spilling Down at Johnson's.".....Chas. Norman
Ballad—"Sing Again That Sweet Refrain.".....Jas. Condon
Comic—"Ma Honey, Sweet Angelina.".....Frank Hutchinson
Ballad—"She Was Bred In Old Kentucky.".....Chas. Hill

GRAND FINALE.

Chorus—"America" and "Old Glory.".....OLIO.

Overture.....Orchestra
Monologue.....R. A. VanDeer
Duncan & Rogers in Refined Song and Dance.

Julian Howe, Expert Bicyclist.

The performance concluded with a grand cake walk which made a great hit. The following couples participated:

Gentlemen....."Ladies."

R. A. Vandever and D. M. Hill.
Geo. Browner and Robt. Frank.
Foster Helm and Algan Wells.
Earl Ferguson and Lan Butler.
Chas. R. James and Ben Downey.
Mr. Duncan and Mr. Rogers.

Pilot, Sydney Hughes, of Lexington. The first prize, a mammoth cake, was awarded to George Browner and Robert Frank, of this city, and the second prize—a watermelon—went to Foster Helm and Algan Wells, of Frankfort.

Charles James and Ben Downey, of Paris, captured the third prize, a huge pumpkin. The performance was attended by about forty Lexington Elks who came down on a special train, besides Elks from Richmond, Winchester, Frankfort, Covington and Cincinnati. After the performance the local Elks entertained the visitors with a social session and a banquet.

AUTUMN DAYS.

For men there are the racing days, for dorkies 'possum and persimmon; for all the girls the matinees—And Fall hat openings for women

Robert Mantell is playing at the Walnut, in Cincinnati, this week.

Miss Kate Graham, of Pembroke, gave a "Mary" party, the other night. Only girls whose given name is Mary were present.

The Winchester Amateur Minstrels scored a tremendous hit last Thursday night. A fine solo by Mr. Ed Hill, of this city, was much complimented.

Miss Fannie Davenport, the foremost actress of America, died Tuesday at her summer home at Roxbury, Mass., of enlargement of the heart. She was born in London, England, in 1840, and was the wife of her leading man, Melbourne McDowell.

Nat Goodwin will open his season Monday night at the Grand, in Cincinnati, in his new play "Nathan Hale." He will be supported by his wife, Miss Maxine Elliott, and a fine company. Quite a number of Paris people will see the play during the week.

The Boston Lyric Opera Company will sing Bohemian Girl at the Lexington opera house to-night. "Ship Ahoy" will be sung at the matinee to-morrow afternoon, and "Said Pasha" will be given to-morrow night. Parisians who are in Lexington to-morrow can hear the Boston Lyrics in a new opera at the matinee, for twenty-five cents for any seat.

The writer had the pleasure this week of seeing Mr. Edgar Baume, a talented citizen of Mt. Sterling, personate a prominent role in "A Celebrated Case," which is being played at Robinson's, in Cincinnati, by the Keene Stock Company. Mr. Baume is a handsome and talented young actor who has made an enviable reputation on the stage. He was prominent in the support of Eugenia Blair (Mrs. Robt. Downing) last season. Another very clever member of the Keene Stock Company is Miss Lilla Vane, who was the leading support of Nat Goodwin during his first visit to this city.

WOMEN IN TROUBLE.

The Approach of Motherhood is the Occasion of Much Anxiety to All.

Every woman dreads the ordeal through which she must pass in becoming a mother. The pain and suffering which is in store for her is a source of constant anxiety, fear and dread, to say nothing of the danger which the coming incident entails. The joyous anticipations with which she looks forward to baby's coming gives way to an indescribable dread of the ordeal when she fully realizes the critical and trying event which will soon approach and have to be endured.

Women should hail with delight a remedy which insures to them immunity from the pain, suffering and danger incidental to child-bearing. Such a remedy is now offered, and women need not fear longer the hour of childbirth. "Mother's Friend"—is a scientific liniment—and if used before confinement, gently and surely prepares the body for the great requirements and changes it is undergoing, insures safety to both mother and child, and takes her through the event with comparative ease and comfort. This wonderful remedy is praised by every woman who has used it.

What woman is not interested in "Mother's Friend"? This wonderful remedy has been tested and its priceless value proven by the experience of thousands of happy mothers who have used it during the most critical period of woman's life—the approach and culmination of motherhood.

It has won their everlasting praise, for it gave them help and hope in their most trying hour, and when most needed. Every woman may some day need "Mother's Friend." The little book, "Before Baby is Born," telling all about it, and when it should be used, will prove of great interest and benefit to all expectant mothers, and will be sent free to any address upon application to the Bradfield Regulator Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Storage For Grain.

I HAVE storage capacity at my warehouses for 30,000 bushels of wheat for which I will issue negotiable warehouse receipts, and will guarantee the holder can borrow two-thirds the market price of the grain at the banks at seven per cent interest. Storage, one cent per bushel per month or fractional part thereof. No charge for handling or sacks. Parties who held their wheat last year were paid handsomely for so doing. Will pay New York or Baltimore prices, less the freight, any time you wish to sell.

R. B. HUTCHCRAFT.

Bucks For Sale.

20 pure bred selected Southdown black lambs.
3 aged Southdown bucks.
Also, 4 Cotswold bucks.
Address, R. B. HUTCHCRAFT, Paris, Ky.

THERE are eggs and eggs. The egg of yesterday looks, feels, measures and weighs like the egg of last month, but there's a difference in another respect, and that difference is worth money. Its just so with laundry. The difference between good work and poor is slight to the unpracticed discernment, but it's a difference that counts every time. It's a difference that changes your laundry bill from an expense to an investment. We do good work—it will cost no more than poor work but its worth double the difference.

BOURBON STEAM LAUNDRY.

W. S. Anderson, Of Peck, P. O., Pike Co., O., Recommends Wright's Celery Capsules.

Grants—I have purchased a box of Wright's Celery Capsules from James T. Blaser, druggist, Waverly, O., and used them for stomach trouble and indigestion. I was unable to do anything for nearly two years. I used three boxes of your Celery Capsules and they have cured me. I feel the benefit of others so afflicted I wish to send this letter.

Very truly yours, W. S. Anderson. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1 per box. Send address on postal to the Wright Med Co., Columbus, O., for trial size, free.

A Good Memory

often saves money and also good health. If you are troubled with constipation, indigestion or any form of stomach trouble remember to take home a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and health will be restored to you. Trial sizes 1c (6 doses) large size 50c and $1.00, of W. T. Brooks, druggist, Paris, Ky.

What Shall Be Done

FOR THE DELICATE GIRL

You have tried iron and other tonics. But she keeps pale and thin. Her sallow complexion worries you. Perhaps she has a little hacking cough also. Her head aches; and she cannot study. Give her

Scott's Emulsion

The oil will feed her wasting body; the glycerine will soothe her cough, and the hypophosphites will give new power and vigor to her nerves and brain. Never say you "cannot take cod-liver oil" until you have tried Scott's Emulsion. You will be obliged to change your opinion at once. Children especially become very fond of it; and infants do not know when it is added to their food.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.

My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was spared that we thought would relieve him, but he grew worse until his condition was indeed pitiable. I had almost despaired of his ever being cured, when by the advice of a friend we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). A decided improvement was the result, and after he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew of his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.
860 Elm St., Macon, Ga.

For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific, reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

THE NEWS is requested to suggest that all property owners prepare a list of their taxable property (on hand Sept. 15th) in order that when the county assessor makes his call, in the near future, that the assessment will be facilitated with the least trouble to all concerned. 1t

Mr. Brutus Clay, son of Col. E. F. Clay, has been admitted as a member of the Paris bar. Mr. Clay is a graduate of Princeton, and of the Law School of the University of Virginia, and has lately finished a course in Business College at Lexington. He is one of Bourbon's best young men, and is at present connected with the Bourbon Bank, of which his father is President.

The Correct Styles.

THE feminine readers of THE NEWS are requested to bear in mind the dates of Mrs. M. Parker's Autumn display of millinery—Oct. 6th and 7th. You are invited to at end and view such a rich display as you'll not see anywhere else—styles from the foremost designers and best makers of the world of fashion—and, moreover, so priced that interior styles are dear in comparison. There will be on display the absolutely correct creations in both style and quality—the ideas and chic things which fashion declares to be the proper cut. A collection never before equaled. Remember the dates.

New Bowling Alleys.

DR. J. R. ADAIR and Mr. Swift Champ have leased the large room, on Main Street, opposite the court-house, (vacated by the Louisville Store,) and are putting in a new hard wood (maple) regulation bowling alley, consisting of two 64-foot alley beds. The place will be known as "The Pastime Bowling Alleys" and promises to be a popular resort for the lovers of this fascinating game. The alleys will be in operation court-day and the public patronage is cordially invited. Plenty of room for the bowlers and seats for spectators.

Bowling parties are quite the rage in society circles of large cities. The Pastime Alleys can be leased for parties. Dressing and cloak rooms, for ladies, attached.

MUSTY WHEAT—We will pay full value for musty, damp and off grades of wheat. (1t) R. B. HUTCHCRAFT.

To The Ladies of Paris.

My fall millinery is calculated to please a diverse trade, that is I actually have hats in hundreds of shapes. You cannot ask for a style that I cannot show you, if it is made at all.

I suit all tastes, gratify every whim, conform to all demands. It is easy in such a stock as I have this fall.

The assortment includes many beautiful shapes.

The trained taste and judgment of my trimmers who are of the highest grade of millinery skill is at your service. I will help you in the selection of a hat, if you like, and you are sure to find just what you want at my Fall opening which occurs Oct. 7th and 8th—Friday and Saturday. Be sure and come. Yours truly, MRS. CORNE WATSON.

Revival in a Distillery.

Dr. Rutherford E. Douglas, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Nicholasville, and the Rev. Mr. Ziegler, the Presbyterian minister at Spearsville, have recently closed a protracted meeting at E. J. Curley's distillery, nine miles from Nicholasville, on the Kentucky river. The peculiar feature of the meeting was that it was held in the meal room of the distillery. A passer-by could hear the singing and preaching in one room, while kegs which once contained the fermenting liquor, now stored in the immense warehouse, were visible through the windows of the adjoining apartment.

An Expert Well-Driller.

W. R. RENFRO, the expert well-driller, of Lexington, will be in Paris Monday (court-day) in his advertising wagon. If you need pure and lasting water on your place get him to drill you a well as a drilled well never goes dry and is always clean when properly fixed. Mr. Renfro has been drilling wells twenty-four years for the best citizens of central Kentucky with uniform success. Avoid accidents and vexatious delays by having your well drilled by an experienced and successful man. Mr. Renfro can drill a well almost anywhere in from three to ten days' time.

Export Cattle Sold.

YESTERDAY J. Sim Wilson delivered to M. Joseph, buyer for Schwartzchild & Co., seventy-six export cattle. The average weight was 1,550 and the price paid was $1.75.

Warren Rogers has sold to M. Joseph ninety-three 1,500 pound cattle at $4.70 per cwt., and Louis Rogers sold eighty-five plain cattle, average weight 1,400 pounds, to same buyer at $4.50.

Jonas Weil has bought fifty-four 1,500 lb. cattle from John Ireland at $4.65, and fifty cattle of same weight from Will Fisher at the same price. Alfred Clay also sold twenty 1,600-lb. cattle to same party at $4.65 per cwt.

Stole A Barrel of Whiskey.

TUESDAY night thieves broke into a freight car at the Kentucky Midland depot and stole a barrel of five-year old "Chicken Cock" whiskey, removing the barrel to a place of hiding that is yet undiscovered. The whiskey had been consigned by the G. G. White Co. for shipment.

A Popular Hotel.

ALWAYS popular, the Palace Hotel, Sixth and Vine street, was easily the most popular hotel in Cincinnati during the G. A. R. encampment. Excellent cuisine, prompt service, and polite employees, and splendid management has made it the best $2 and $2.50 per day hotel in America. Kentuckians always find friends stopping at this hostelry. (27Sep4s)

Grand Fall Opening.

To the ladies of Bourbon county: My Fall opening display of fashionable millinery begins Thursday, Oct. 6th, and lasts two days.

I invite the ladies of Paris and vicinity to be present at this formal Fall Opening.

After weeks of preparation, of study and arduous research, we have gathered a line of superb millinery which embraces the leading styles of the foremost of the earth's designers.

We will show pattern hats—the most exquisite designs—the ideas of the artists of Paris, Berlin, London and New York.

I feel confident you will be pleased, and take this opportunity of extending thanks for your generous patronage in the past.

Your presence is earnestly requested at my opening. Respectfully, MRS. M. PARKER

The best trotting meeting ever held in Louisville is being well attended this week. In the Seelbach stake the colt Latawa won the first heat in 2:05, breaking the world's record for three-year-olds. Miss Logan won the race, however, in 2:08. John Nolan won the Douglas Stake in 2:08, and Tador won the 2:15 class. The 2:20 trot was won by Marguerite, Doug Thomas getting second money with Mabel Money Penny. Ecstasy, by Baron Wilkes, won the Pacing Matron stake.

It is a sad lesson in economy when one's property is destroyed uninsured. Start over again; it's tough. One thinks vigorously then; "If I had only carried a policy." That's my line. I insure you in the best companies in the world and as cheap as any. T. PORTER SMITH.

NUPTIAL KNOTS.

Engagements, Announcements And Solennizations Of The Marriage Vows.

The marriage of Miss Mamie Taylor, of Lexington, and Mr. C. P. Jess, of Bowling Green, will occur on the 19th.

The engagement of Mr. Charlton Wallace, of Lexington, and Miss Heley Peters, of Cincinnati, is an open secret at Lexington.

Laura Jean Libbey, a writer of romances, has just figured in a real romance. She was secretly married on the 21st to Van Mater Stillwell, a Brooklyn lawyer.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mattie Lee Mann, of Covington, and Mr. Darwin Massie Stapp, of Mexico. Miss Mann is a daughter of the late R. Lee Mann.

The marriage of Miss Mave Maddox, one of Shelbyville's most popular young women, to Newton Bright, Jr., will be celebrated at the Christian church, at Shelbyville, on October 19.

Rev. Howard T. Cree, the brilliant young pastor of the Maysville Christian Church, will be married in December to Miss Lillie Bryan Thomas, of Shelbyville, at the Shelbyville Christian Church.

Miss Mary Lucy Woodward, of Kenney station, and Mr. Chas. Monson, of Nicholas, were united at a home wedding Wednesday afternoon by Rev. F. W. Eberhardt. They left immediately for their home in Nicholas.

Ensign John F. Hines, of the United States navy, whose home is at Bowling Green, and Miss Mary Desha Breckinridge, daughter of Major Gen. Joseph C. Breckinridge, will be married at the home of the bride's parents, in Lexington, on the evening of October 13.

THIS Fall the manufacturers of millinery material have tried to rival Nature in reproducing the glorious Autumnal tints and right well have they succeeded. Mrs. Corne Watson has secured the very choicest of these materials and she and her assistants will rival the cleverest trimmers in the country in creating beautiful and harmonious symphonies in millinery. Her Fall displays will be held next Friday and Saturday, October 7th and 8th.

OBITUARY.

Respectfully Dedicated To The Memory Of The Dead.

Patrick Monahan, aged twenty, died Wednesday morning at his home on Scott avenue, after an illness which lasted several months. Funeral services were held yesterday morning at 6:45 by Rev. Edward Burke, at the Catholic Church, and the remains were taken to Lexington for interment.

Robert Layton, aged about seventy, died at his home in this city Tuesday morning, after a protracted illness of general debility. The deceased, who was a life-long citizen of Paris, is survived by his wife and five children—William and Samuel Layton, Miss Mary Layton, of this city, Mrs. John Skillman, of Cane Ridge, and Mrs. Herbert Thompson, of Lexington. Funeral services were held at the residence Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock by Eld. J. S. Sweeney.

EXCITING CAMEL TRAINING.

The Ungainly Burden-Bearer of the Desert Has More Vices
Than a Mule.

An officer who has for some time been residing in Egypt, where camel riding has been obligatory, sends the following graphic description of his experiences with that amiable and useful animal: "You can well imagine that there's a circus around here when the usual riding instruction is going on. When the untamed camels first arrived at our camp I heard a tremendous growling in front of the door, and on going out I saw one of these amiable beasts being led by his keeper, but walking along with every expression of disgust both on his countenance and voice. The man stopped (ditto camel), and attempted to tie the beast's forelegs together, when it reared, and, striking out with its forefeet, landed on the keeper's stomach and head, sending him flying through space as if shot out of a cannon. The man picked himself out of the ditch with a hand on each bruised part, and the camel, which had never ceased roaring, was taken in charge by two other and more robust natives and led to the tents, or rather induced to go by energetic assistance of a very sharp iron rod applied in a most vigorous and miscellaneous manner. Similar exhibitions are being conducted here daily, and we are now ready to lead the recently broken camels. Within three or four days they become tractable. I first formed my opinion of a camel some years ago, when I rode across the Arabian deserts, and I see no reason to alter it in any way. The creature has so many talents and so many ways of exhibiting them. And, to begin with, it can kick harder, higher, swifter and oftener than a mule, and can use all four feet at one time in a kicking match. Then it can bite worse than a vicious horse, and buck in a way to make a bronco blush with absolute shame. No rider ever lived who can stay on that perch seven feet from the ground during a camel's exhibition of gymnastics. Then he can run away when he feels like it, and is often seized with a desire to slope. Upon an occasion of this kind his rider experiences a sensation between being blown up with dynamite or struggling against the throes of an earthquake, until all his joints are dislocated, and he drops, a limp, inert mass, to the ground. Then this sweet creature has a way of evincing his displeasure that is at least effectual and convincing. He twists his snake-like neck into a circle, and, poking his ugly nose into the face of the rider, opens his cavernous mouth and lets out a roar of disgust in such a fetid breath that the elevated human victim is fairly blown into the middle of the coming month (a week being too short a distance). And yet, with all these high recommendations, which some people might consider objectionable, these are the dear animals I am constantly brought in contact with, and for which I am even beginning to form an affection."—The Road.

FOR AWNINGS.

Stripes Are Now Made in Very Great Variety—A New Stripe Due to the War.

An awning stripe new this year, and one due to the war between the United States and Spain, is made in stripes of red, white and blue, uniform in width. New styles of awning stripes are brought out every year, and the variety from which a choice may be made is very great. One extensive dealer has 250 different styles of awning stripes, to which additions are constantly being made. There are fashions and fancies in awning stripes as to pretty much everything else. The red, white and blue awning stripes above referred to are made in a saten-finished drill, as are also some other designs; but by far the greater proportion of stripes and other awning material used are now in cotton duck.

Awning stripes are in the north now very extensively used instead of plain awning materials. When white awnings are used it is likely to be where signs are to be painted on them. Many of the stripes are handsome and tasteful, and some of them are beautiful and striking. The awnings used in these days may easily add materially to the picturesqueness of a building or of a street.

Awning stripes cost more than plain material, but the simpler stripes only a very little more. The added cost increases, but still in the case of many stripes not greatly, with the amount of color used. There are stripes in which high colors are freely used, such as brilliant reds and yellows, that cost 50 per cent. more than the same material would cost plain.

The awning stripes most commonly used are of blue and white, and next to them in demand are stripes of tan and white. In recent years awning stripes in green and white have come to be very popular. Awning stripes are made in many combinations of colors as well as in many variations of the stripes themselves.

In the south white awnings were formerly used almost exclusively, the stripes fading in the sun; and white awnings are still more commonly used than any other in that part of the country; but for some years the south has been buying more and more awning stripes. Awning stripes are commonly used in the west, as they are in the north.

The present widespread common use of folding awnings in the United States has practically come about since the civil war.—N. Y. Sun.

SINCE MOTHER WENT AWAY.

The old home's mighty lonesome now—it ain't what one would call a home, just like it used to be, 'fore mother died last fall. Though knowing she is better off, somehow I ain't content. For things about the old place here have changed so since she went.

There's nothin' like it used to be about the dear old place. An' life is lackin' flavor of her old-time love an' grace. Per' t'rough I've lived here fifty years—just fifty to a day. It doesn't seem like home no more, since mother went away.

I am the only one that's left, now old and feeble grown. Left here in my declinin' years to struggle on alone. The children all are scattered far abroad o'er land an' sea. An' everything's so changed about from what it used to be.

The old house is so silent now, where none but me remain. The last unbroken link of what was once a perfect chain. There are none left to comfort me or give encouragement. Along life's solitary way since dear old mother went.

Yes, home is mighty lonesome now—deserted, sad an' drear. Bereft of half a century of wifely love an' cheer.

The sweetness of the long ago, the brightness of the May. To wintry gloom has been transferred—since mother went away. —Sidney Warren Mace, in Good House-keeping.

An Army Wife.

BY CAPTAIN CHARLES KING.

(Copyrighted, 1896, by F. Tennyson Neely.)

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—Fannie McLane, a young widow, is invited to visit the Graftons at Fort Sedgwick. Her sister tries to dissuade her, as Randolph Merriam (whom she had jilted for old McLane) and his bride are stationed there. The narrative then goes back to the time of the engagement of Fannie to Merriam.

CHAPTER II.

"I own I never thought of her marrying in the army," said Aunt Charlotte, as do other aunts and mothers after their girls have been campaigning at the Point.

"What income, if any, have you outside your pay?" was Uncle Mellen's more-to-the-point interrogation.

"Nothing, sir."

"Well, neither has she. That is, what she has is so small it wouldn't keep that extravagant child in gloves. You two had better be sensible and think it over."

Randy Merriam did think it over, but all to no purpose. The more he thought, the more he declared himself hopelessly and irrevocably in love, and as Miss Fan took kindly to his protestations, and Parry and Charlotte took kindly to him and sympathized with the soldierly fellow, who was evidently much of a gentleman and so much in love, it resulted in his being made welcome at Parry's club, received quite as Parry was at the Mellens—since not oftener than once a week could he get away from his duties at the Point, and when Ned and Charlotte were married, as they were in state and style early in the winter, Merriam had many a good reason for believing that, despite his poverty, the next wedding reception held at the Mellens' beautiful home would be one in which he would be vitally interested.

Well, he was; but not in the way or manner expected. In fact, he did not attend the ceremony or the reception; indeed, he was not bidden. A very disagreeable thing happened to him within a month after the Parry-Hayward wedding, one that overwhelmed him with mortification and distress, and caused no little indignation among his comrades.

Everybody knew Randy Merriam was in debt. He made no secret of it. He was extravagant in his tastes, had incurred obligations before going on duty at the Point, and found it impossible to "catch up" there. There were three or four accounts he had been asked to settle, as they had been running some time, but he put them off from month to month, hoping that he might soon be able to obtain possession of a small sum of money left him by the will of a relative two years before. It was only a few thousand dollars, yet even that had been contested, together with a number of similar bequests, and the legal complications had been as exasperating as the law's delay could make them. One day, soon after Charlotte's wedding, Merriam was summoned to the presence of the superintendent and was regretfully told that four of his creditors had united in an appeal to the war department, and the matter had been referred to him as post commander. Merriam was confounded. He had seen and talked with one of them only a few weeks before, and no such action had even been hinted at. Nor did he know that any one of their number was aware of his indebtedness to the others. Frankly he had told Miss Fan of these matters before he told her of his love, but it made, apparently, no impression on her. "Let them wait," she said. "You'll soon be able to pay them ten times over."

Frankly he had talked of it to one or two of his intimates, and later to Parry, who had grown to like him, and who, as a lawyer, thought his little inheritance could not be much longer withheld. It would free him; it would very prettily furnish their quarters and still leave a few hundreds to the fore. He remembered, too, that Uncle Mellen had made some inquiries of him, and that in perfect frankness he had replied. And now, just at the moment when he was full of hope and happiness, came this cruel mortification. Such action on the part of his creditors was unacceptable, but, as the superintendent said, it was a solemn fact. Deeply chagrined, he told the colonel the whole story, and the colonel was full of sympathy, but as full of sense.

"I'm sorry, Merriam," said he, "but there's only one thing for you to do. There's no telling when you'll ever get that inheritance. When lawyers once get hold of an estate it's dollars to dimes nobody else ever does, and by the time judgment is awarded in your favor it will be eaten up in fees and innumerable charges. You cannot count on a cent of it. You cannot save anything to speak of here. Just capitalize those debts of yours; borrow the money from some business man on reasonable time and interest, get your life insured in his favor, and go out and join our troop. We can have you relieved as at your own request, and once out on the frontier you can save so much a month, and little by little pull yourself out."

And leaving his pretty sweetheart, his chosen friends and pleasant surroundings, this was exactly what Randy Merriam did. Ned Parry, with a puzzled look on his face, had listened to his mournful recital, had promptly offered his services and his bank account, and made but one stipulation: "Don't you go near those fellows, Merriam. Let me have the bills and I'll send you the receipts," for Parry had a theory of his own.

Sedgwick was as dreary a post, so far as surroundings were concerned, as could be found, in the west. It stood on a pebbly mesa, flat and barren, overlooking the narrow, tortuous, shallow canyon through which rippled the waters of the San Mateo. Across the western horizon hung a low, jagged curtain of distant blue mountains. Far away to the northwest a snow peak shimmered in the dazzling sunshine, but north, east and south the low rolling contour of the prairie, like the ground swell of the ocean, was lost in illimitable monotony. The only trees were some willows down in an arroyo that emptied its rivulet after a rain-storm into the stream. The only green things were the blinds and vines upon the piazzas of the officers' quarters. Yet Sedgwick was a big post, an important post, for a great Indian reservation lay only 20 miles away toward the mountains. Two lines of railway met at the junction three miles down stream, and by riding a few miles westward one came suddenly upon a fertile valley, where grass and trees abounded, and where all nature seemed to smile, and where by rights the old post should have been located; but all that was Indian reservation when Sedgwick was built, and not until long after did the territorial officials succeed in getting it lopped off from Lo's allotment and thrown open to settlement. Along the bowery shades of the Santa Clara were now ranches by the dozen, and a hundred or more of enterprising settlers, and between them and the thronging garrison at Sedgwick was peace and good will and every kindly relation, when Randy Merriam came out in the December of the Columbian year, determined to take his punishment like a man. He had sworn off cigars and extravagances of every kind. For a time he even declined to subscribe to the hops, which were charming affairs, for the band was excellent and the regiment blessed with many lovely and lovable women. "Merriam spends all of his money in stamps," was the comment of the garrison wits, for he wrote day after day to his distant darling in the east. That winter Ned Parry accepted the junior partnership in the great firm of Graeme & Rayburn, in Chicago, and moved thither with his lovely wife, while Fan remained with Aunt and Uncle Mellen in Gotham, pinning, presumably, for her far-away soldier boy, and yet writing much less frequently than he did, for the demands of society were incessant and auntie kept her "on the go."

One day in April there came a letter from the east at sight of which Randy Merriam's face was radiant with joy. It briefly told him that the long litigation was over and that some $3,500, all that was left of the original $6,000, were at his disposal. Jubilantly, confidently then, he wrote to Fanny to name the day, and in course of time there came a reply, long, self-accusing, penitent, miserable, but all-sufficient. The day was named, and so was the man—Mr. John Harold McLane, of New York, a wealthy widower of 55.

The wedding of Miss Hayward and Mr. McLane followed so speedily the announcement of the engagement that elderly club men, long years the chums of the groom, barely had time to concoct suitable forms of compliment and congratulation. The reception which followed the ceremony, however, was on such a scale of magnificence as to leave little room for doubt that the Mellens had long been preparing for the event. The business relations existing for a decade between Uncle Mellen and John McLane were well understood. Indeed the match was declared to be of Uncle Mellen's making, and the whole transaction was openly referred to by younger club men as a most Melancholly affair. Charlotte Parry went on from Chicago to attend it, but Ned, her devoted lord, pleading very pressing professional engagements, positively refused to go. He wrote a letter to Uncle Mellen about that time, however, which gave other reasons for his non-attendance, and to which the recipient, after several attempts, found it impossible to reply. Mrs. Parry hastened back to Chicago immediately after the reception, and from that day neither she nor her husband set foot within the Mellens' doors. Aunt Charlotte declared the conduct of her niece most unbecomingly ungrateful, unaccountable, but her husband said nothing.

The bride was a vision of girlish beauty, that bright June wedding day, and McLane was as handsome and well-preserved a fellow of 35 as even New York could show. He was evidently deeply in love and immeasurably proud and happy. As for the lady, she looked to the full as joyous and radiant as any lover lord could ask, and her manner toward McLane, much "more than twice her years"—nearly three times, in fact—was sweet, shy, appealing, and trusting, all in one. Many women in society, old and young, envied her, and everybody appropriately congratulated him and wished her joy. Mac's plan for the honeymoon included a yachting tour through the Scottish isles and so on to North Cape, but Fan surprised him. She had seen so much of Europe, she said, and so little of their own country. Couldn't they go to Chicago for the world's fair, and then to Niagara and down the St. Lawrence, and through the White mountains and the Catskills? So this they did, coming back to Gotham for a round of receptions and social gayeties in the late autumn, then going to Florida and thence to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras, and then Fan begged to be taken to Coronado and Monterey. She longed, she said, to see Southern California, and the "Sunset Route" bore them within three miles of old Fort Sedgwick on their westward way.

The Graftons were still at West Point. There was only one officer at the post whom she knew, and none who were known to her husband. It was five o'clock of a soft, sunshiny February afternoon, one of those matchless days for which the valley of the Rio Bravo is famous. McLane was playing "dummy" in the smoking-room. The young wife was raving over a book. She was looking, it must be owned, not only bored, but somewhat dusty and disheveled, and she was conscious of the fact, which made her look still worse. She was remarking how baked and dry and dreary and monotonous was the landscape, and wondering where they were and what was the name of those far-away blue mountains under the fiery path of the sun—geography was not one of her strong points—when the train slackened speed and rolled slowly into a station that seemed more populous than any recently passed, and there stood another train, almost the counterpart of their own, and on the station platform of what was evidently a connecting road were groups of swarthy, cigarette-smoking Mexicans, a few stolid, silent Indians, and then—was it possible?—stylishly, fashionably-dressed women, and officers in riding garb, and there at the platform stood waiting ambulances and orderlies with led horses, and the sound of merry chat and laughter came floating in at the open window, and people occupying sections on the left side of the Pullman crossed over to her side and gazed with all their eyes. "What's the name of this station?" some one asked the porter. "Santa Fe Junction," was the answer. "Yawnduh's Foht Sedgwick, three miles out there on the mesa."

Fanny McLane's heart gave a sudden jump. The train, which had stopped an instant before crossing the other track, moved slowly on, and then under the grip of the air brakes came to a stand beside the platform, and, conscious that she was looking her worst—looking yellow, in fact—she drew back from the window and hastily lowered the shade. Then merry voices and laughter, and light, bounding footsteps were heard at the head of the car, and in came a joyous party, officers and ladies. A tall, slender girl seemed the object of general interest, and her bundles and wraps were deposited in the opposite section by one officer; another bore a brand-new bag; another a bunch of beautiful roses, and ten women hung about the girl and kissed her and cooed over her; and, with the experienced eye of her sex, Mrs. McLane needed only one glance at the pretty, stylish traveling suit, at the jaunty little hat, at the slender, tapering boot, all so new and glossy, to realize at once that here was a bride—an army bride—and one beloved of her kind, for one woman after another clung to her as they kissed, and many eyes were wet, and all were filled with love and trust and tenderness. "God bless you, Floy, darling!" cried one enthusiastic girl. "I'm so glad we've got you in our regiment. I was so afraid the Riflers would never let you go." And this, too, seemed an all-pervading sentiment among the men whose caps were decorated with crossed sabres, while others, who wore the badge of the infantry, and their wives and daughters seemed to have another song to sing. "Florence, you broke our hearts by marrying out of the regiment, but at least we'll soon have you back at Sedgwick, by the purport of what was said by more than one of our number."

Then came warnings to leave the train. The conductor was shouting "All aboard!" and, bearing her with them, they rushed tumultuously to the rear platform. Then, very slowly at first, the car began to move, and the other occupants of the Pullman poked their heads out of the windows and looked back along the platform, as exclamations followed them. But Mrs. McLane still shrank behind the lowered shade, her heart beating strangely, and her ears straining as though to catch the tones of a voice long unheard, last heard only with sweet emotions. Manly tones were shouting Godspeeds and good-byes. Womanly voices were adding their inconsiderate pleas for let- ters, and then as the speed increased and the voices died away the passengers slipped back to their sections and strove not to seem to be on the watch for the return of the bride. It was quite a little while before she reappeared. Mrs. McLane was conscious she was coming because of the backward glances of her fellow-travelers, and, under their long lashes, her own eyes took their eager, sidelong peep. She came slowly, a tall, soldierly form in gray traveling garb close at her side, one arm half encircling, half supporting her. She had evidently been weeping a little, for as she seated herself and looked fondly up in his face the great lustrous, deep-brown eyes were wet with tears, but the face was glorified by the love and trust that shone in them. A broad-shouldered back, bending devotedly over the girl, was about all Fanny McLane could see of the escort, but it was enough to cause her heart to stand suddenly still. She felt as though she were choking, as though she must have air. Then she heard his voice, deep-toned, manly, tender, the very tones her ears had been straining to hear a few minutes before, and then, springing from her seat, her handkerchief raised to and shrouding her face, she too hurried to the rear door of the car and stood there clinging to the rail for support. The man in gray, the devoted bridegroom, was Randolph Merriam.

And there at the rear door she hovered until the clouds of chiding dust drove her within. It was the men's end of the car, and fragrant cigar smoke was drifting from the room in which her husband and his cronies were playing whist. If only the long car were turned end for end! If only she could get her bag and reach the women's toilet-room unobserved. Let him, and his—and that girl—see her looking as she was now?—not for worlds! Get to that toilet-room and wash away the grime and dust and cinders, get out her alcohol lamp and curl that rebellious, stringy "front," and prink and powder and retouch those faded lashes and brows—all this she must do before facing him and her. But how to get there without being seen. She must pass them so close as almost to touch his shoulder. No! A furtive peep from behind the brown curtain into the dim interior revealed the broad gray shoulders bent far over to the girl's end of the seat. He was leaning over her, looking down into her eyes, talking earnestly to her. There was no comfort in the sight. It stung her to instant action.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

PEACE, NOT WAR.

Modern Rome Is Founded in Industrial Pursuits.

Inter arma silent leges, and the moralities are silent also. But the whole tendency of human civilization is to eliminate war, or to render it more and more abnormal. Machiavellism is, therefore, it would seem, reactionary politics, suited in a minor degree, it may be, to a state of things which we are outgrowing, but utterly useless and mischievous in the civilization of to-day. The Roman empire, which Machiavelli so greatly admired, was largely founded in bare military necessity, and was sustained by conquest. But the chief modern states are founded in industry and the arts of peace, and war is with them a terrible and rare exceptions to a general rule of peace.

The doctrines, therefore, were evolved by one of the most subtle of the world's thinkers at a time when his country was rent asunder by the feuds of contending states, are utterly out of place in the conditions imposed by modern life. The state which reposes in the good will of its citizens is the most secure, and if the dread occasion should arise when it must draw the sword to defend its very existence, its citizens will be the more strongly armed for the encounter because of the habit of social efficiency which has been cultivated by obedience to the doctrine that the one ground for the existence of the state lies in what Emerson has well called its "care and culture of men."—London Spectator.

Shakespeare Vs. Burns.

At the close of a lecture to the members of a certain literary society the following dialogue between a Scotchman and the lecturer was overheard: "Ye think a fine lot o' Shakespeare, doctor?"

"Do sir," was the emphatic reply. "An' ye think he was mair clever than Robbie Burns?"

"Why there's no comparison between them!"

"Maybe no; but ye tell us the nicht it was Shakespeare who wrote 'Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.' Now Robbie would never have written sic nonsense as that."

"Nonsense, sir!" thundered the indignant doctor.

"Ay, just nonsense. Robbie would hae kent fine that a king, or a queen, either, disna gang to bed wi the crown on his head. They hang it over the back of a chair." The doctor's face dropped, for he realized that his lecture had been given in vain.—Scottish Nights.

Absorbed Nothing.

At a gathering of Cambridge undergraduates, the head of one of the colleges was the subject of a number of flippant criticisms. A fellow of the college heard the talk and proceeded to administer a rebuke. "You are probably ignorant, young gentlemen," he said, "that the venerable person of whom you have been speaking with such levity is one of the profoundest scholars of our age. Indeed, it may be doubted whether any man of our age has bathed more deeply in the sacred fountains of antiquity." "O come up drier, sir," was the reply of the undergraduate.—Detroit Free Press.

No Time to Punctuate.

She—How would you punctuate the following: "Bank of England notes of various values were blown along the street by the wind?" He—I think I would make a dash after the notes.—Tit-Bits.

She Was Entranced.

"Was it a thrilling play, Julia?" "I should say so; I forgot to eat my chocolate creams."—Chicago Record.

SECTIONAL LADDERS.

Their Advantage in Picking Fruit Can Be Readily Seen by Any Observing Man.

This ladder is so made that the various sections are interchangeable, so that by the use of four lengths, 8 feet each, numerous combinations may be made. Four sections of the ladder weigh 60 pounds, and occupy a space 8 feet long, 28 inches wide, and 12 inches deep. Fig. 1 represents a section of the ladder 8 feet in length. Fig. 2 shows two sections each of the length mentioned, placed together so as to form a stepladder or truss, either side or both of which can be used at the same time. By the use of two of the combinations with a board extending from one to the other, a perfect scaffold is formed with a ladder at each end to reach it.

Fig. 3 shows four sections put together for the purpose of forming a double stepladder twice the height of No. 2. Fig. 4 represents the lower end of the ladder, while Fig. 5 represents the end of a section. The two are joined together by pushing No. 4 down outside of No. 5 until the rounds engage in the slots. The advantage of this sectional ladder in picking fruit can be readily seen.—C. H. Hickox, in Ohio Farmer.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Vigorous, thrifty, but low set trees are preferable to tall, slender ones for transplanting.

Examine newly-set trees and see that the lands left on them are not so tight as to injure the trees.

In the fall is a good time to set out rhubarb and asparagus plants. Every garden should have a good bed.

If there is too much top, the tree overbears, the tree is small and defective and the crop difficult to gather. Pears to do their best must be fed and the soil well drained, strong and retentive. Locality should determine the variety.

Peach stocks, which continue to grow freely may be budded as long as the bark peels freely for the insertion of the buds.

A good mulch keeps down weeds and renders the soil loose and moist at all times, and lessens the labor of cultivation.

While old trees are often made more fruitful by severe pruning, young, thrifty trees are often injured by the same treatment.

Prune out all the useless shoots in young fruit trees the growth of which is about completed. No injurious check will be given the trees.

All wood that is more than two years old should be cut out from the currants and gooseberries. They will produce more fruit if the vines are not so large.

In sending fruit of good quality to market sort carefully and put it up in neat, attractive packages and in such shape that it will arrive in a good condition.

Practical Knowledge Needed.

A thorough knowledge of soils, chemically and physically, will enable the possessor of it to, in great measure, overcome the effect of drought; how many of our farmers have this knowledge? Not one in ten thousand. And yet every child in our country school might easily be taught, by illustration and experiment, how water passes downward through soils by gravity and rises by capillarity and adhesion, and a multitude of other facts which are the basis of physical science, and which would be just as useful to the child whether he became in after years a civil engineer or a farmer.—Rural World.

Fertilizing the Orchard.

There is reason for believing that the orchard needs fertilizing even more than the ordinary field crops. A part of the fertilizing element of the latter is returned to the soil each year. The plant food that is taken up in the orchard is taken away from the soil forever. None is returned to it. It is estimated that in a single season an acre of apple trees will draw from the soil 49 pounds of nitrogen, 38 pounds of phosphoric acid and 72 pounds of potash. These must be returned or the productiveness of the orchard will be lost.—Farmers' Review.

A Reprehensible Practice.

It will surprise a good many people to know that there are poultrymen who send to market infertile eggs that have been incubated by hens or in the incubator from five to nine days, at which time those growing poultry usually test for fertility. There is nothing very honest about this, but many a man who makes a row because he did not get a hatch of 14 chicks out of a sitting of 13 eggs will do it. Infertile eggs do not become rotten when incubated for the time named.—Dakota Field and Farm.

EDUCATE THE CALF.

How to Feed the Young Animal So That It Will Develop Into a Good Dairy Cow.

In his address at the Indiana State Dairy association, says Farm News, Mr. Goodrich stated that educating an animal to become a good dairy cow must begin with the young calf. Muscle-forming food should be fed, such as bran, oil meal, skim milk, etc. Educate the calf to eat muscle-forming food as much as possible. Begin to feed the calf with skim milk and a spoonful or two of oil meal, then give a few whole oats to follow. Nice clover hay should be available. Feed skim milk six months or so. He wants an animal to come in milk at two years. Give the heifer a good box stall and plenty of straw to calve in. After calving give her warm water—not cold. Take calf away gradually, say in two or three days. After calving feed for awhile only a little grain, and then depend mostly on bran. After two weeks you can begin to feed to full capacity. Feed a variety. It is desirable to have a balanced ration as nearly as can be. Quotations were given from the Wisconsin bulletin of 100 feeding rations, showing how some so-called successful feeders combined dairy cattle foods. Mr. Goodrich has found a production of two pounds of coarse food to one of concentrated as most satisfactory. Succulent foods are important. Of Woll's 100 feeders, 65 fed ensilage and two roots. If we cannot have green grass, we should feed either ensilage or roots. It has paid Mr. Goodrich to feed a little bran or corn meal in summer. His cows produced 50 pounds more of butter per animal the summer when fed grain than they did the summer before when no grain was fed. His grain cost five dollars, and $13 was derived from the butter, showing a good balance in favor of the grain. Do not feed every cow alike. Mr. Goodrich's standard feed is 32 pounds silage, five pounds clover hay, five pounds corn stover, eight pounds wheat bran and two pounds cotton seed meal. Lighten up on the feed of some cows and increase on others. If she gives more milk by more feeding, increase.

TURNABLE POWER.

Just the Thing for Farms Where More or Less Stock Is Kept in Idleness.

Make a suitable frame work as shown at a, on which to rest platform (b). The platform is of plank, circular and so built and placed on the frame work (a) as to turn freely on a pin or pivot at the center. Place the power where desired, to pump water, cut feed, grain, etc., with one edge elevated to give the tread a suitable pitch. Under one edge place a friction roller (c); a section of log may be used, connected to a tumbling rod (d). This rod may be geared to the machinery at will. Lead horse, cow, goat, sheep or other animal onto the platform and as it walks leisurely on the platform just over the friction roller, power is developed. In one described to me as running a two-man and four-girl wood-working shop in Massachusetts 70 years ago, the edge of the platform only projected into the shop. On this edge, inside the shop, a stall was built. A little black cow, hitched to the manger, contentedly trudged and munched her hay with cheerful heart. The girls divided their noonday lunch with "bossy," who divided her milk with them; the little shop thrived, and all went merrily in "them good old days."—Farm and Home.

TURNABLE POWER.

BUILDING UP A HERD.

How It Was Done, and Most Successfully, Too, by a Dairyman in Ireland.

An instructive illustration of the manner in which the milk and butter yielding capacities of dairy cows may be developed by careful selection is afforded by some details recently given publicly in connection with a prominent herd on the other side of the channel. About a dozen years ago the milk of all the cows comprised in this herd—over 60 in number—was carefully analyzed. Nine of the cows were found to be yielding milk showing over 5 per cent. of butter fat, 22 were yielding over 4½ per cent., 14 were yielding over 4 per cent., and 23 were yielding under 4 per cent. From this date onward calves were only kept off the cows which yielded milk showing over 4½ per cent. of butter fat, and the tribes of the others were gradually weeded out. By the aid of a regularly kept milk record the product of every cow is known, and none is kept for any length of time which does not yield over 600 gallons per annum. By combining what is learned from the analysis and the milk record and only keeping calves from cows whose produce is up to the standard, alike in quantity and quality, the milking properties of the cows have been so improved that at present over 60 per cent. of its members are yielding milk showing over 5 per cent., and 75 per cent. are yielding milk showing over 4½ per cent. of butter fat. This result has only been attained by the exercise of great care and scrupulous attention in the selection of bulls, and no sire is used without every inquiry being made as to the milking records of his female ancestry.—Dublin (Ireland) Farmers' Gazette.

AN AUTUMN IDYL.

In Which Is Depicted Somewhat of the Sorrowfulness of the Expiring Year.

A great wave of perspiration had swept up from the briny depths of the sea of humanity, and on its white-capped top the month of August had taken passage to the shoreless realms of eternity.

Typical of the petals of the blooming September in her golden glory stood, and from her harvest finger ends threw ripening kisses to the world.

There was no sadness in her eyes, and in her voice was only the music of rich, ripe fruit falling to the ground. As she swept along on the crimson tide of her leafy glory, a simple Oyster crossed her path.

In his face was the shadow of Fate. His requiem was sounding in the key of R. September saw him, but she was not what he was to her, nor she to him. She nodded at him smilingly.

"Good morning, Master Lowly," she sang. "Look upon me, I prithee. Am I not indeed in it?"

The Oyster was amazed. "I beg your pardon," he answered, though he knew full well what she had said. "Dear me, Master Lowly," she chirruped, "do but look at me. Am I not in it?"

"Do you mean the soup?" lugubriously inquired the Oyster. "No, indeed. Why should I?" laughed the warm September. "I mean the Autumn, of course, stupid."

Then the Oyster sighed as if his shell would break, and he wondered why one could be so heartless as to jest upon such a serious subject.—Washington Star.

FELL FROM A SCAFFOLD.

From the Herald, Watertown, N. Y.

John Young, of Le Roy, N. Y., is 72 years old, and is well known in that and neighboring towns. While putting some weather boards on a barn, standing on a scaffold twenty-two feet from the ground, he felt dizzy, lost his balance and fell to the ground. The side of his face, arm and one entire side of his body, on which he struck, were badly bruised. Picked up and carried to the house, he was under a doctor's care for several weeks. The doctor finally came to the conclusion that his patient had received a stroke of paralysis, and was beyond medical aid. He could not use his arm, or turn over in bed.

One day, while lying on the bed, he read of a case something like his having been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He consulted his granddaughter to get him a box of the pills. After that box had been used he secured another. In three weeks he began to feel a little life in his arm; at the end of four he could move his fingers; at the end of two months he could walk, and in three months he could shave himself with the injured hand.

As he told his story in the Herald office, he looked the perfect picture of health. He carries a box of the pills in his pocket, and whenever he does not feel just right, he takes them. They cured him after doctors had given him up, and his death was daily expected.

All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female.

PRACTICAL KINDNESS.

One Hundred Thousand Grateful Soldiers.

These war times have tried men's souls in many unexpected ways, but like a shaft of sunshine and good cheer out of the cloud of privation and endurance has been the work that The American Tobacco Co. has done among the U. S. Soldiers and Sailors ever since the war began—for when they discovered that the camps and hospitals were not supplied with tobacco they decided to provide them, free of cost, with enough for every man, and have already given outright to the Soldiers and Sailors over one hundred thousand pounds of "Bat-Ax Plug" and "Duke's Mixture" Smoking Tobacco, and have bought and distributed fifty thousand briar wood pipes, at a total cost of between fifty and sixty thousand dollars.

This work has been done quietly and thoroughly, by establishing headquarters in each camp, so that every camp and every hospital of the United States Army has been supplied with enough tobacco for every man and the sailors on thirty United States Ships in Cuban waters have shared with the soldiers this most welcome of all "rations."

Perhaps it will be only fair to remember when we hear the remark again that "corporations have no souls," that there is one American corporation whose soul has been tried and has not been found wanting in "practical kindness."

Tickets.

When a manufacturer has succeeded in making his name a guarantee of the excellence of his goods he has reached the highest point attainable in the commercial world.

As an example the name of Wm. Simpson & Sons on any fabric is a guarantee of the highest standard of quality, color and finish. Every piece of their goods bears a ticket on which appears the name William Simpson & Sons. This insures the quality. Dealers who have sold and women who have bought and worn the material made by that house are assured of the excellence of every piece of goods which bears the name, and the women of the United States who have worn Simpson's prints as long as they can remember are still wearing them and will naturally insist upon having the goods bearing that particular name on the ticket because they give the most perfect satisfaction.

BREAD, POTATOES and MILK.

He Lived on Lenten Fare.

A Dyspeptic's daily diet.

Dyspepsia is one of the most prevalent of diseases. Thousands of people suffer from it in a more or less aggravated form. Few diseases are more painful to the individual or more far reaching in their effects on human life and happiness. What the dyspeptic needs is not local treatment, not mere temporary stimulus. The real need is the tuning up of the entire system. Fortify the system and it will do its own fighting, and promptly eject any intruding disease. The success of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla in curing indigestion and dyspepsia is due to just this quality which it possesses, of renewing the vital forces, repairing the waste and loss of the body. The ordinary treatment brings the food down to the level of the weak stomach. Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla puts strength into the stomach, and brings it up to the level of the strong food fit for men. It does this by strengthening the entire system. The stomach cannot stay weak when all the other organs are gaining strength. What Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla will do for dyspepsia is best illustrated in cases like that of M. S. Shields, Meridian, Miss. Shields had got down to the last level of dyspepsia. But let him tell his own story:—

"For years, I was afflicted with dyspepsia which gradually grew worse until I could eat nothing but bread and potatoes seasoned with a little salt, and drink only a little milk. I became so bad that a trifle too much of even these caused terrible suffering in the regions of the stomach, darting pains back of the eyes, attended with dizziness and partial loss of sight. The only way I could get relief was by vomiting. Finally I had such a severe attack that the entire left side of my body felt numb and partially paralyzed, and in this condition, I was taken to my room unconscious. The physicians failed to help me, and none of the many remedies I took did me any good. At last a friend presented me with a bottle of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had used half of it, I could see a decided change for the better. I used three bottles and was so completely cured that for four years I have not been troubled with the old complaint, but am rugged and hearty and able to eat anything that can be eaten. It would be impossible to say too much in praise of Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I would not give one bottle of it for a dozen of any other kind."—M. S. SHIELDS, Meridian, Miss.

Try Dr. Ayer's Sarsaparilla if you are dyspeptic. If you want more testimony to the value of the medicine, get Dr. Ayer's Curebook. It is sent free on request by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell.

WHAT THEY EXPECT.

An Instance of the Unreasonable Expectations of Some New Women.

She was a new woman and was rather proud of the fact that she had a place in the world of business that enabled her to regard herself as being on an equality with man. But there was one thing that annoyed her.

"I go down on the car early every morning," she said, "with a young man who lives a little farther out than I do, and I don't mind saying that he doesn't know what courtesy and gentleness is."

"What does he do?" inquired her big brother, who doesn't think very much of new women, anyway, and is consequently opposed to his sister being in the world of business.

"It isn't what he does," she replied; "it's what he doesn't do. Time and again he has let me stand up all the way downtown, when it would seem as if the very least he could have done was to get up and offer me his seat."

"That is wrong, isn't it?" returned the big brother.

"It's contemptible selfishness; that's what it is," she answered. "The fact that he is in possession of a seat," went on the big brother, "of course does not entitle him to it if a fellow clerk of the opposite sex happens to want it. And yet men in business will do those things. Why, I know a girl who has twice the grievance that happened to her?" she asked.

"Man there first and refused to give up when she came along," he explained.

"Give up his seat?"

"No; give up his job. She has discovered that it would just about suit her, but the great big brute of a man hasn't chivalry and courtesy enough to get up from his desk, bow politely and say: 'Madam, permit me to offer you my job.' Actually, he just hangs right on to it himself and lets her go hunting round for something to do. Most ungentlemanly, isn't it? But, do you know, I think the old-fashioned courtesy is—"

However, she did not wait to hear about that. She merely said he was a mean thing and didn't understand what was due to a lady at all. And he himself admits that constantly changing conditions make it mighty hard to find out.—Chicago Post.

MANY FEMALE ILLS RESULT FROM NEGLECT.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks May Produce Displacements That Threaten Women's Health.

Apparently trifling incidents in women's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks, may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. MARY BENNETT, 314 Annie St., Bay City, Mich., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can hardly find words with which to thank you for the good your remedies have done me. For nearly four years I suffered with weakness of the generative organs, continual backache, headache, sideache, and all the pains that accompany female weakness. A friend told my husband about your Vegetable Compound and he brought me home two bottles. After taking these I felt much better, but thought that I would write to you in regard to my case, and you do not know how thankful I am to you for your advice and for the benefit I have received from the use of your medicine. I write this letter for the good of my suffering sisters."

The above letter from Mrs. Bennett is the history of many women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Suffered 20 Years.

MRS. MARY LEWIS, wife of a prominent farmer, and well known by all old residents near Belmont, N. Y., writes: "For twenty-seven years I had been a constant sufferer from nervous prostration, and paid large sums of money for doctors and advertised remedies without benefit. Three years ago my condition was alarming; the least noise would startle and unnerve me. I was unable to sleep, had a number of sinking spells and slowly grew worse. I began using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills. At first the medicine seemed to have no effect, but after taking a few bottles I began to notice a change; I rested better at night, my appetite began to improve and I rapidly grew better, until now I am as nearly restored to health as one of my age may expect. God bless Dr. Miles' Nervine."

LOVE AND GOLD.

In Devil's gulch dwelt Frederick Dourald, a native of Switzerland. He would not have left home but for Gretchen. But when she told him that marriage was impossible without wealth, love, which surmounts all obstacles, prevailed, and with her kiss and her promise, he sailed away in search of the golden key to the treasury of her affections. Her family means had fallen far below what was necessary to keep up the prestige of the family name, a fact her parents never ceased to lament, and Gretchen was dutifully impressed in her early girlhood that her beauty must win back the departed family glories by social achievements. This was why Fritz left his home across the sea and finally drifted to California, then the Mecca of all gold seekers.

Though the letters that came to her in the days that followed told of no accumulated riches they were full of hope and breathed of an immeasurable love from every line. But alas for the vain little Gretchen! Letters were of necessity few and far between in those days, and before the good ship had sailed from port 12 moons she had half forgotten the passionate avowal of love and the solemn promises and, rounded on by her ambitious mamma, was already casting about her for a richer lover.

All this time the faithful Frederick was working away early and late, with little success, it is true, but, like the gambler, always hoping for better luck on the morrow. While his restless comrades prospected here and there persistently he followed the same tiny streak of "pay dirt" with a doggedness of purpose sure of success. When the provisions for which his last dollar had been expended gave out and he seemed no nearer his find than when he began, determinedly as ever he went into camp and after much coaxing prevailed on a comrade to divide up with him.

"It's no use, I tell you. You'll follow that lead till you're gray haired and be none the better. I don't mind the grub so much as I do seein you waste your time for nuthin. Give it up and go higher up the gulch," said his friend.

"Well, I'll stick to it just as long as this grub lasts, and if I don't make a strike then I'll take your advice and give it up. But I'm sure there's gold round there somewhere. All the signs point to it." And Frederick went his way.

Although he worked harder and ate more sparingly than ever, he reached the bottom of his meal sack and the last of his bacon, and still no sign of the realization of his dreams. Tired and discouraged, he lighted a fuse for a final blast and sat down some little distance away to await the result.

"Luck's against me," he thought to himself. "No grub, no money, and no letter from home for months! I'm sure of getting one tonight, though," he said half aloud, and, regaining his hopeful frame of mind, he arose and went to take a final look at the hole where he had seemingly wasted so much time and labor.

"Mine Gott in himmel!" said he, unconsciously reverting to his mother tongue at the sight that met his gaze. There in a heap all mixed with the earth and rock was more gold than he had ever thought of even in his wildest dreams. There were little nuggets and big nuggets in a shining heap. He had at last found the wonderful "pocket" for which he had been searching so long, the pocket that made his name famous throughout Devil's gulch to this day.

It was too good to be true. Hardly could he wait to gather up the precious bits before rushing into camp with his news, the proofs of which bulged from the sack he had improvised from his under shirt.

"And the heft of it, boys!" said Pat Donegan admiringly, lifting for the fifth time the precious bag and letting it dangle on the table with a thud. "Be dead, and she's as heavy for her size as a bad conscience, and niver a word out 'im as to where's the nest of his findin's," and thus the attention of the rough crowd of miners grouped round the table was again turned toward Frederick.

If a thunder bolt had descended in camp, there could not have been greater surprise than at the change that had come over the jubilant Frederick. He sat there on a box in the corner transformed from the happy fellow of a half hour before into a picture of the most hopeless dejection. To the many awkwardly kind inquiries of his comrades he only groaned out "bad news from home," and wiping the perspiration from his forehead he took up his bundle and rushed out into the night.

No one ever knew the cruel contents of that letter. How the fickle Gretchen when she finally had received a letter with less hope, though more fond in its devotion than usual, had felt called upon to write some truths to her faithful lover. This was when she had decided to marry her mother's choice, his rival.

The blow, coming as it did at the moment of his supreme joy, was too much; the reaction too great. He never fully recovered from the shock.

When, after several hours, he did not return, his friends, growing alarmed, went out to look for him, they only heard the echo of their calling and the rush of the foaming river. For weeks he disappeared, and when next heard of he was living, as he is to this day, on the top of Bear Mountain, a changed man. His best friends could scarcely recognize in him their light hearted comrade of old.

The saddest fate that can befall a soul is when it loses faith in God and woman. "He's not at home up here," they said to each other sadly, wisely tapping their foreheads, and many and deep laid were the schemes to surprise him into telling the hiding place of his famous pocket find. He was as reticent on that subject as he was as to the cause of his living up there all alone.

"I want nothing between me and heaven," was all the satisfaction they could get out of him, and they finally gave it up, concluding he had forgotten where his gold was hidden. As the years rolled on by ones and twos they "hit the trail" in search of pastures new and left Fritz, afterward "Old Fritz," lord of Devil's gulch. —St. Louis Republic.

The Garden of Eden.

For a long time it has been contended by many that the garden of Eden was located on one of the table lands of Hindustan or Tibet, but now M. Louis Wilzer, a distinguished anthropologist, comes forward and claims that it must have been situated very near the north pole. His study of the cranial formation of the various races of mankind has led him to this conclusion. According to him, mankind may be broadly divided into two great races—the whites of Europe and the colored and yellow populations of Asia and Africa. Among the Europeans, he claims, the Scandinavians are the purest race, and for this reason he maintains that the parents of mankind must have lived near the north pole.
